

---

Systematic Development of Forecasting Methodology

---

2004–2005

Principal Investigator: Martin Potůček

The project was sponsored by the Czech Research Foundation and focused on systematic monitoring, experimental verification, development, and evaluation of existing international forecasting methods and procedures as well as developing new methods and implementing them in the comprehensive system which encompasses both forecasting methodology and practical study of the Czech Republic's future developments.